

Announcement: Valedictory, Farewell, and Welcome

The Editor wishes to thank those who assisted her during her years with the Journal of Academic Librarianship. Without this superb team, the work of the Journal could not have been accomplished. The authors whose commitment to improving the profession caused them to do research and to write articles to share their knowledge with others. The reviewers whose sage advice allowed the selection and fostered the revisions leading to top quality materials:

Nicholas C. Burckel
Karyle Sue Butcher
Deborah B. Dancik
Donald G. Frank
William Gosling
Larry Hardesty
Eddy Hogan
Cheryl LaGuardia
Laurie S. Linsley
Sarah M. Pritchard
Carlen Ruschoff
Helen H. Spalding
Jack Sulzer

The Editor's editor Stephen Lehmann, whose words of wisdom quashed the worst rhetorical excesses in editorials.

The Carnegie Mellon editorial assistant Roberta Kenney and Penn State editorial assistant Sondra Armstrong whose tireless efforts kept manuscripts flowing, reviews on time, midwinter meetings organized, and numerous questions resolved. The institutional support from Carnegie Mellon University and Penn State University whose commitment to producing new knowledge made my contribution possible.

The readers whose e-mails and comments about content kept me focused on the value of the enterprise.

The Editor-in-Chief Peter Herson, whose vision of excellence and supreme dedication to improving the quality of scholarly discourse in librarianship continues to inspire me.—Gloriana St. Clair

FAREWELL AND A WELCOME

I would like to thank Gloriana St. Clair and the other departing Board members for their dedication to (and hard work on behalf of) the Journal of Academic Librarianship. I shall miss their guidance and commitment to the further development of the journal. We accomplished a lot together, and I shall always be grateful to all of you.

At the same time, I want to welcome the new Editorial Board (see below).—Peter Herson
